Profile

I am a highly motivated and multi-talented professional combining a foundation in Information Technology and Software Engineering with proven expertise in business administration and project delivery. I am currently leveraging full-stack development skills (Django, Vue.js+ Bootstrap, MySQL) to engineer a functional web application for real-world administrative management, as documented in the "Development of an Integrated E-System for Angels Voices Choir (AVC)" project. I possess robust experience in entrepreneurship, staff management, financial oversight, and community leadership. I seek to transition technical expertise and diverse practical experience into a challenging Software Development, Technical Administration, or Business administration role.
